"HAY MAKER" WINS FOR MIKE

George Gardner Is Knocked Out in Twentieth Round.

FINISH A BIG SURPRISE

WITH TWENTY SECONDS MORE TO FIGHT THE END COMES.

stariety anyone, and again it looked as if the finish might come at any time. The end of the nincteenth was a give and take affair that sent both men to their corners in a tired condition.

After the handshake for the twentieth round Mike and George started punches that would have ended the fight at any stage. Both seemed to put more steam in their blows than at any period of the fight. While they were wild yet there was a vengeance for the fight will the finish might be the appendix of the fight. While they were wild yet there was a vengeance for the fight will the finish might be the appendix of the fight. While they were wild yet there was a vengeance for the fight will the finish blow ended a spectacular fight.

Not once during the fight until the end came was there a blow landed hard enough to stagger either man. At no time was either man groggy, and while the ruby red flowed freely from both men from the first round until the last, it was the result of jabs in the face which were sent in by both men at all stages of the fight.

Fighters Extremely Busy.

The fact that both men were on Easy street at all stages of the contest does not man that they were not busy. It is doubtful if there was a space of fenseont from the first to the twentieth round that the men were idle. It was give and take, clinch and break away, jab and swing all the time. Gardner would be the aggressor in one round and in the mext schreek would carry away the honors. For a few seconds a propular victory when he romped home to fact the first to the twentieth of the fight. The clinch man from the first to the twentieth of the fight. The clinch man from the first to the twentieth on wind in return. Mike puts stirl to face the fight to face and lends a light ten on wind in return. Mike puts a light to face the return of the fight. The crowd was orderly and satisfied.

was between Terry Davis and George Hackett. At the end of the seventh round Willard Bean stepped to the center of the ring and gave the decision to Davis. Hackett had both eyes partly closed and was clearly unable to closed and was clearly unable to con-tinue. He was helpless in the last two ounds of the contest, but at this Davis ould not put him down. Neither man has a punch, but both are game—be-yond this their abilities as fighters end.

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

Blows as Seen and Delivered at the Ring Side.

Within twenty seconds of the end of twenty rounds of what was apparently a draw fight. George Gardner received the good right mitt of Mike Schreck square on the point of the jaw, sending the Lowell man down for the first knockout in his pugilistic career. Referee Willard Bean counted ten, and as the former light-heavyweight champion staggered to his feet, the bell was runs to keep him from taking another punch he would have been unable to prevent. Perhaps there was not a man in the house who did not look for a draw, or at least see the contest go the limit. Partisans of the different men might contend that his man had the best of it, but barring the shade, if there was one, it was an even break until the fatal blow settled the dispute forever as to who was the winner.

The fight was witnessed by a crowd that filled every inch of space in the Sait Lake theatre. President Joseph F. Smith and eight of his sons occupied a box.

Blow a Wild Swing.

Blow a Wild Swing.

The blow was a wild swing, started low from the rear. It took the full compass of Schreck's long arm and landed flush on Gardner's mouth. From the ringside it looked as if it struck a trill block for the point of the jaw, but trill block for the point of the jaw, but trill block for the point of the jaw, but trill block for the point of the jaw, but the ringside it looked as if it struck a trill block for the point of the jaw but to stomach. Round 3—They come to a clinch. Mike lands a stiff eight for the point of the jaw, but from the manner in which Gardner dright to car. Schreck swings right point of the jaw. which invariably sends a man to dreamland when the force is behind the punch.

Gardner rolled slowly over as Willard Bean counted off the fatal seconds. At the certain the street of the converse of the converse of the converse of the street. He wavered helpless, until the merciful bell rang, twenty seconds before the final time, to save the declared purillat further punishment.

What shall we do to be saved? was the title of one of Robert Ingersoll's lectures. People of fath and people of no faith flocked to hear it. Thousands are asking, "What shall I do to get rid of dandruff?" The answer is, "Kill the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair and finally baldness; and the only thing that will do it is Newbro's Herpicide. That is the very latest discovery of the laboratory, and it is the only preparation that claims to, or that will, kill the pestiferous dandruff germ. New York, April 17.—Terry McGovern, who escaped from a sanitarium at Stamford, Conn., today, is at his home in Brooklyn, where he is being cared for by his wife. He will be kept there for a week, when he will return to the sanitarium. Immediately after his escape he boarded a freight train and came directly to this city.

At his home tonight he said that after emerging from the woods and finding he had eluded his pursuers, he walked along the railroad tracks until a freight train approached. Then, he said, he put a large stone on the track, compelling the engine driver to stop. When he did so McGovern climbed aboard and explained his situation. He said he was recognized by some of the train hands, and they permitted him to ride.
